Plus an attempt on her and Young Ds life, that he begins to open his mind to the fruitfulness of her job. Will she find the person whos trying to kill her and her husband, in time? How do you convince your husband, who is head of household and has protected you since day one, that you have the advantage when it comes to preventing attacks on the family? How do you make him understand that killing isnt an emotional thing, when he wants to be brought in? Once she gets a target of the personal kind, she vows to remove that threat, at all cost. Even if it means losing her beloved husband and sons. But however dirty she gets and whatever dirt she does, shes determined to do it, All By Her Lonely.
