

The Best of Fantasy and Science Fiction Magazine, July-August 2003

Take Audibles July/August Fantasy & Science Fiction collection with you to the beach. Its got rich humor galore, as well as a couple of particularly evocative futures which offer new perspective on these troubled times. We begin with the latest installment of Paul Di Filippos Plumage from Pegasus column, Write What You Sell, providing a new twist on literature and publishing. Then, Al Michaud takes us Down East for the annual clambake in Clem Crowders Catch, a Maine horror story that will elicit both shivers and laughs. Benjamin Rosenbaums surreal Red Leather Tassels introduces us to the sex life of a very special woodpecker. Repository by Carol Emshwiller is an edgy and powerful glimpse into the mind of the universal soldier. Harlan Ellison reads Harvey Jacobs existential fish story, Spawning, with comic restraint. From the pen of the wonderful Pat Murphy comes Dragons Gate, a tale about a prince, a minstrel and, of course, a dragon, that sets the entire tradition of such stories on its ear. And finally, Adam-Troy Castros stunning novella The Tangled Strings of the Marionettes, explores the nature and purposes of art, humanity, and perhaps life itself.
