

Stranger at Sunset

One of the most inventive murders I have ever come across in years of reading crime fiction ... it will send a particularly icy chill up the spines of male readers. - Crime Fiction Lover Dr. Kate Hampton, a respected psychiatrist, gathers with a group of strangers at her favorite travel spot in Jamaica. In the aftermath of Hurricane Sandy, the luxury resort is struggling due to a scathing review from travel critic, Matthew Kane. The owners have invited him back with hopes he will pen a more favorable review to restore their reputation.

Even though Kate is haunted by her own demons, she feels compelled to help. Can she uncover the motivation for the writer's bitter review? In a battle of wits and psychological twists, terrible secrets will be revealed. Stranger at Sunset is a slow-burning mystery/suspense that will keep you guessing to the end.
