

Lone Star Planet

They started giving me the business as soon as I came through the door into the Secretarys outer office. There was Ethel Kwang-Li, the Secretarys receptionist, at her desk. There was Courtlant Staynes, the assistant secretary to the Undersecretary for Economic Penetration, and Norman Gazarin, from Protocol, and Toby Lawder, from Humanoid Peoples Affairs, and Raoul Chavier, and Hans Mannteufel, and Olga Reznik. It was a wonder there werent more of them watching the condemned mans march to the gibbet: the word that the Secretary had called me in must have gotten all over the Department since the offices had opened. Ah, Mr. Machiavelli, I presume, Ethel kicked off. Machiavelli, Junior. Olga picked up the ball. At least, thats the way he signs it. Gods gift to the Consular Service, and the Consular Services gift to Policy Planning, Gazarin added. Take it easy, folks. These Hooligan Diplomats would as soon shoot you as look at you, Mannteufel warned. Be sure and tell the Secretary that your friends all want important posts in the Galactic Empire. Olga again. Well, Im glad some of you could read it, I fired back. Maybe even a few of you understood what it was all about. Dont worry, Silk, Gazarin told me. Secretary Ghopal understands what it was all about. All too well, youll find. A buzzer sounded gently on Ethel Kwang-Lis desk. She snatched up the handphone and whispered into it. A deathly silence filled the room while she listened, whispered some more, then hung it up. They were all staring at me. Secretary Ghopal is ready to see Mr. Stephen Silk, she said. This way, please. As I started across the room, Staynes began drumming on the top of the desk with his fingers, the slow reiterated rhythm to which a man marches to a military execution. A cigarette? Lawder inquired tonelessly. A glass of rum?
