

City on Fire (Metropolitan Series)

Nominated for both the Hugo and Nebula Award, City on Fire returns to the world-city of Metropolitan, a city dominated by plasm, the magical substance capable of both creation and destruction. With her help, Aiahs lover Constantine has established himself in the metropolis of Caraquí, a nation dominated by corrupt officials, gangsters, and the genetically altered known as the twisted. Here they hope to create a revolution in the cosmic order--- but first they must fend off treachery, war, and the threat of Taikoen, the hanged man, a deadly creature that lives within plasm itself. Aiah must fight not only for her revolution and for her place in the world, but for Constantines very soul. City on Fire is a splendid, riveting novel in which the most powerful magic is that of a writer directing the twin streams of reason and intuition to produce a dream within the texture of reality. --- Russell Letson, Locus, City on Fire, by Walter Jon Williams, is that rarest of entertainments, a sequel that improves on a successful predecessor ... Mr. Williams prose is distinguished by a no-nonsense confidence that perfectly matches Constantines unshakable faith in his own destiny and in his ability to resist the corruption that notoriously comes with power. --Gerald Jonas, NY Times Book Review City on Fire offers something for just about every kind of reader ... Williams really gives the reader hours of entertainment with polished style, twisty plots, action and vivid characters. ---Jeff Watkins Williams [creates] a magnificent world-city, its entire surface urbanized by a multitude of civilizations that draw their very existence from plasm, the mysterious energy contained in all matter ... Well-drawn, believable characters give emotional force to this fine novel ... Ultimately, however, it is Williamss complex world-city, more convincing than even Asimov in Foundation, and his endlessly inventive use of plasm that will hold readers fascinated attention. --- Publishers Weekly
