

Under the Heel of the Aether Imperium: A Steampunk Short Story

Arla Lightrider is the newest captain of the Profit and Luck, her late fathers aether tradeship. She plans to follow in his footsteps, shuttling cargo through the tradelanes as a member of the Galactic Merchants Compact. Though her work is complicated by the new Imperium governments crackdown on the Compacts unregulated free traders, she thinks she can handle anything the stars throw at her. But when a strange alien offers to pay her handsomely for transport to a fringe world, she becomes caught in a conspiracy that could shake the foundations of the new galactic order. For her passenger carries something the Imperium desperately wants; something it is willing to kill to possess or destroy. And, Arla soon learns, despite the new governments brutal consolidation of power, there are still pockets of resistance alive throughout the galaxy. Not everyone is content to live under the heel of the Aether Imperium. Under the Heel of the Aether Imperium is a 12,000 word steampunk space opera novella. This story is part of a science fiction anthology. If youre interested in this, buy the anthology, Defiant, She Advanced (also available on Amazon) for the same price, and receive nine additional stories from other talented authors as well as this one.
